THE COLOR OF THE SEASON: WE SEE RED!

Red makes a comeback in all its variations. From the peppiest cherry to the deepest burgundy, passing through theatrical red, it always makes an impact on walls, seating, and rugs. Silk, velvet, cotton, linen, satin, wool, leather... The houses of Paris Déco Off use its wide palette in their latest collections, like Phillip Jeffries with its wall coverings.

AN ARCHITECT TO FOLLOW

Laura Gonzalez and Maison Schumacher sign the most anticipated collaboration of the season: a bold, colorful fabric collection that embodies the excellence of the legendary American house and the flair of the star designer known for her mix-and-match style. Internationally renowned for her eclectic harmonies and warm atmospheres, she recently completed the decoration of Printemps in New York. It is precisely in this city that the Schumacher collection was born, unveiled in Paris at the beginning of September.

Décor Idea

A kaleidoscopic interior

Bring on the color! This fall, let's forget the greyness and invite the energy of saffron yellow, terracotta red or even teal blue into our homes. The trick? Go for three or four bold shades, balanced by a base of elegant neutrals such as beige or pearl gray. Play with contrasts: emerald green pairs beautifully with warm wood, vibrant fuchsia lights up dark metal, while soft textiles bring a soothing touch. The result: a warm, vibrant, and character-filled atmosphere that enhances both classic and contemporary settings.
